We are a nut aware school

We must say a big thank you to one of Mr Kaufman's class parents who supplied homemade dough and everything else required for a wonderful pizza making session.

All the learners eagerly moulded the dough, spread sauce, sprinkled cheese, and indulged in plenty of topping taste testing. Everyone went home with their own partially filled pizza box.

The learners had a great afternoon.

NYES Cleaning have asked us to include details of a vacant cleaning position at Welburn Hall School.

It is 10 hours per week, 3-5pm Monday to Friday. Click on the link for more information and how to apply.

Dreams under Blossom

At the end of April we were lucky enough to be visited by representatives from Nunnington Hall and Concrete Youth Theatre Group. They came to work with some of our learners on Dreams Under Blossom – an art installation currently on display at Nunnington Hall.

Concrete Youth led a sensory theatre workshop that followed the story of Riley, a child who goes camping with her grandfather and falls asleep under a flowering orchard. The children created their own dreamy art pieces based on the story.

The display is on until the 29th June and our learners can visit free until then by emailing Nunnington Hall at nunningtonhall@nationaltrust.org.uk or phoning 01439 748 023. Tell them the date that you want to go and mention either "Concrete Youth" or "Dreams under Blossom".

Caroline's class had a session in Food Technology, doing some baking to use up left over ingredients. As well as making buns, they practiced their maths skills, with counting, weighing and measuring. Well done everyone.

Mr Western's class paid a visit to Monk Park Farm. They had a fabulous day in the sunshine, petting the animals, playing on the playground and getting up close with the guinea pigs.

They ended on a high with an ice cream!

Mrs Clapton's class had a visit from Sharon at NYBEP to talk about apprenticeships.

NYBEP is a non-profit, education and business partnership that supports young people in their careers, offering such things as work experience, skills development, employability support and mock interviews. See more about them here:

Last week Caroline's class were very excited to go Out and About!

They visited the Steam and Moorland cafe in Pickering. Each boy asked for their drink and snack choices by themselves; their behaviour and manners were also excellent, so well done to everyone.

It's been bees 🐝 and botanical wonderment 🌱 in our green fingered Pre-Formal class this week.

Learners in Christina's class are continuing to complete their ICT accreditations. Students were each tasked to create a PowerPoint about a topic that interests them and then present it to the class. The PowerPoints were engaging and interesting, and the learners presented so professionally. We're all very proud of them and the incredible progress they've made!
